

REMEND

ORACLE ADVISORY SERVICES

Remend is an independent advisory firm that partners with enterprise, mid-market and government organizations to cut technology costs.

Independent Advisory Services

Remend's services help you navigate the complexity of publisher contracts and service agreements to make informed decisions for your business environment. Our experts work to find business efficiencies, reduce stress and realize budgetary savings in four steps:

Complementary Financial Analysis

Remend's free financial analysis simplifies decision-making and removes the confusion and uncertainty associated with Oracle licensing and traditional support. We help you analyze what you are paying for and the value you are getting while discovering what is missing.

Do I need an independent advisor?

Remend can help you answer the following questions:

- Is the annual support we're paying for worthwhile? If it isn't, then what alternatives do we have?
- Are the licensed products, metrics and quantities optimized for our business?
- What strategies can we employ to lessen compliance risks and related unexpected expenses?
- What methods can we use to enhance our bargaining power for additional purchases?

Maximum Value in Shortest Timeframe

Remend's financial analysis identifies issues with your Oracle license and support contracts.

We offer advice on valuable action plans, focusing exclusively on annual renewal contracts, that help you avoid time-intensive tasks such as deploying expensive software asset management tools. All of this saves you time and money.

Take control and make value-based decisions on your Oracle-related expenses.
Remend can help!

The Challenge with Oracle

Oracle is the forerunner in establishing the policies, pricing and practices that give software publishers excessive power and influence over customers' business decisions.

Oracle depends on complex policies instead of practical needs to sustain and increase revenues.

As a result, customers find it challenging to evaluate the value of legacy expenses, align their needs with licensing and subscriptions and reduce their risk of audit.
